

Are you a cancer survivor
who is 15-25 years old and finished treatment 1-10
years ago?

We want to hear from you!

It can be especially hard to go through cancer as a young person and we need your help to target research priorities so we can make things better for other young people who go through cancer in the future.

In an afternoon event, meet with other young people who have gone through cancer, and researchers, to talk about what matters to you.

You'll have a chance to tell us how you think we can best improve cancer care for young people: anything from creating better treatments to improving access to social support. Have a question about research? You can chat with an expert panel of researchers and oncologists too.

When? Saturday, 19 October from 12-4PM
